

Mr Fitzwilliam Darcy

Age: Ideal

Appearance: Roguishly chiselled

Education: Pleasingly fulfilled

Profession: Desirable

He soon drew the attention of the room by his fine, tall person, handsome features, noble mien. A man of unparalleled splendour, capable of warming even the coldest of hearts with little more than a glance and twitch of his roguish smile.

Miss Elizabeth Bennet

Age: Desirable

Appearance: Delightful

Education: As one would expect

Profession: Intriguing

Let it never be remarked that someone of such a lively, playful disposition, so capable of delighting in the ridiculous, could ever grow wearisome or be anything less than a pleasure to remain in the company of.

Mr Edmund Bertram

Age: The glory years

Appearance: Respectable

Education: Of the utmost quality

Profession: Admirable

Few, if indeed any, could doubt the man's fierce intellect, nor indeed his passion for those precious subjects to which he directed his attention. To be considered worthy was a compliment indeed, and deserving of the highest acclaim.

Mr John Dashwood

Age: Preferable

Appearance: Dapper

Education: Satisfactory

Profession: Most appealing

Only a minority of gentlemen will take the time to consider whether they are prepared to dance with the devil in the pale moonlight. Fewer still answer in the affirmative, prepared to risk all for a moment of blissful contentment. This man is different.
